

Asked if would consider relocating to another district away from North Wales:

Stated:

Couldn't. I want to remain in Wrexham.

Asked how [REDACTED] feels about it all

- not pleased – really, really annoyed. His concern same as mine – not going to court if still live here.

He's not too bothered about where we live, but I am also thinking of [REDACTED] schooling. I have him booked into Nursery School, to move would be a big stumbling block because there is a ctachment area for the nursery.

Even if change address I want to stay in the same locality. I need the support of my mother, especially when I start my nursing course and have to do night shifts, I will need her in the mornings.

Pointed out that threat as it stands indicates that should she not give evidence she could continue to live peacefully in Wrexham, asked how she takes that –

States is bit dubious, could I rely on that.

Pointed out that threat is predicated on the decision she takes about whether to give evidence or not.

States:

The Letter really knocked me back but I don't want to fall at the last hurdle, I have committed myself to giving evidence. When I was at court Eleanor Atkinson was gesturing and pointing me out "ther she's f-ing there". Made me more determined.

Pointed out by Christine Smith that the Andrea's commitment to give evidence was not binding, particularly in light of the change in circumstances, the letter, the fact that her evidence and cross-examination at committal stage was likely to last about three days, rather than the one day initially anticipated and that the same could be expected at trial. Further, we could not give any guarantees that the dates of hearings would convenience her. . Told that we really need to ascertain her attitude to giving evidence today.

Stated:

If still living where I'm living I couldn't give evidence
