

17. I do not think that I ever went back to the Coach Inn after this incident. I did not see many people, including Victoria, much after the incident either. I moved to Belfast a few months later, when I was 18 years old, and eventually left the country. I did hear some rumours, however, as to who might have been involved in the incident. There were rumours about Stacey Bridgett and Dean Forbes being involved in the incident, but I cannot remember rumours about anyone else. I discussed the incident with Victoria and generally with mutual friends, but I cannot remember with whom.

18. I am unable to add anything more to my statement after all this time. The police interviewed me at my house after the incident, but it was a relatively short interview. Perhaps if I had been asked more specific questions by the police in 1997, I would have provided a fuller statement. However, now it is impossible for me to provide any additional detail.
